

Financing of Joint Liability Groups (JLGs) of Micro entrepreneurs /artisans in Non Farm sector

1. The Scope of Activities

Within RNFS, a variety of traditional activities in handlooms, wood, metal, fibre, handicrafts, carpets, leather-works, etc., which are highly labour-intensive and have a niche market including exports provide good opportunities to micro-entrepreneurs. These potential micro enterprises could be pursued by forming JLGs.

2. Promotional support from NABARD

Under the scheme, NABARD would provide some incentives, to banks by way of promotional grants for forming, nurturing and financing JLGs, on an annual basis, for the first three years. NABARD would also extend need-based promotional support for training, exposure visits, experience-sharing, etc for banks' staff and other publicity and awareness-building measures.

3. Awareness – Building & Monitoring

It is suggested that the JLG concept and operational guidelines may be widely disseminated among branch managers and other field level staff so that they are adequately sensitised and encouraged to prepare perspective plans for JLG formation and their financing in the respective areas of operation. Rural branches may also explore the formation of non farm activity specific JLGs, which will facilitate pooling of demand for raw materials for non farm enterprises and other inputs as well as provide an opportunity for negotiating for better prices. The implementation of the scheme may be periodically reviewed in forums like Branch Managers' meetings, etc.

4. Simplified Process & Forward & Backward linkages

JLG financing in Non farm Sector is a good business proposition in view of the simplified documentation, group dynamics, good repayment culture and prospects of credit enhancement to quality clients. Continued and hassle-free access to credit coupled with support from the State Government and other extension and promotional agencies in terms of forward and backward linkages will facilitate graduation of JLGs to other micro-enterprises within the sector and ensure gainful employment and livelihood opportunities.
